Textbook: James Stewart, Calculus, Early Transcendentals, 9th Edition, Thomas/Brooks Cole, 2020. You will also use WebAssign, an online homework system, which you will find in Blackboard under Content. This course is participating in the Course Materials Initiative. Your textbook is digital and is provided through VitalSource Bookshelf. You can read your eTextbook online via Blackboard or download it to different devices including your computer, tablet, Kindle or smartphone. Information is provided under Blackboard / Content / Start Here about creating your Bookshelf account. You do not need to purchase a hard copy of the textbook if you do not wish to.

Testing and Grading: The usual grading system will be used in this course as follows:

Grade	Score
		WebAssign	Best 10, each 10 points	=	100 points (11%)
A	90% – 100%	Reading Quizz	Total score up to 100	=	100 points (11%)
B	80% – 89%	Quizzes	Best 8, each 25 points	=	200 points (22%)
C	70% – 79%	Exams	3 each 100 points	=	300 points (33%)
D	60% – 69%	Final Exam		=	200 points (22%)
F	0% – 59%		TOTAL	=	900 points (100%)

Content: In MATH 152, we continue the work started in MATH 151. We will study techniques of integration, as well as discuss how to apply the idea of an integral to find certain areas, arc lengths, surface areas, and volumes. We will also study infinite sequences and series, and determine how to represent a function by an infinite series (and then differentiate or integrate the series).

Attendance and Behavior: Attendance is not required but crucial to success in this class. New content will be covered at a rapid rate, and if you fall behind, it will be very difficult to catch up. There will be no make-ups or extensions on WebAssign homework or quizzes. Quiz and Homework drops exist because life happens; there will be no quiz makeups for any reason. Make-up exams/quizzes will be given at my discretion, in general only in situations where there is a conflict with a sanctioned university activity or religious holiday of which I have been notified at least a week in advance. Such activities may include things like a course conflict or an athletic event.

Homework and WebAssign: The WebAssign site for the class will become active and available by the first day of classes. WebAssign can be accessed through Blackboard by navigating to Blackboard / WebAssign or through Blackboard / Course Materials / WebAssign. I am unable to answer technical questions about WebAssign. There will be approximately 15 assignments throughout the semester, with only your top ten homework scores counting toward your overall grade.

To be clear: doing only the WebAssign homework each week is not enough to do well in this course. It is best to study throughout the week; otherwise it may be hard to follow material. Success in this course has as much or more to do with proper time management and study habits, as with aptitude or skill in mathematics. Students are advised to form study groups.

Reading Quizzes: There will be a short Reading Quiz for each section in the textbook that we cover in this course. They will be available in WebAssign, and each will be due 30 minutes prior to the lecture in which we begin that section—please pay close attention to the due dates, since there may be class days with multiple RQs due and class days with no RQs due. You should read the section in the textbook prior to completing the corresponding RQ, and may have the text in front of you as you complete it. You must complete the RQs individually, not working with other people like you're encouraged to do for the homework assignments. Though there will be a total of more than 100 points on all of the RQs throughout the semester, your score for this portion of the overall grade will be capped at 100 points. (That is, if you accumulate more than 100 points throughout the semester on RQs, you will have a score of 100 out of 100 counted toward your overall grade. There are no extra credit points possible on this part of the overall grade.) There will be no extensions for the RQs for any reason.

Quizzes: There will be 11 quizzes given during discussion sections throughout the semester. Your best 8 quiz scores will count toward your overall grade. There will be no make-up quizzes for any reason.

It is also important to note that this is at heart a non-calculators course. This might differ pretty heavily from your previous math courses in high school or at a community college. You will need to have a mastery of algebra and precalculus without relying on a calculator. You will not be allowed to use a calculator on quizzes or exams (and we will attempt to make the numerical parts straightforward enough that you won't need them). This also means that we will use exact numerical representations (like $\sqrt{2}$ or π) wherever possible, rather than decimal approximations (like 1.41425... or 3.14159...). We will only use decimals in very limited contexts or when explicitly required by WebAssign.

Exams: There will be three exams given during lecture:

- Exam 1: Thursday, February 26th
- Exam 2: Thursday, April 2nd
- Exam 3: Thursday, April 30th

Exams are held in the same room as your usual lecture. All exams will be closed-notes, closed-books, no calculators. If your lowest exam score is at least 25% and it is to your benefit, I will replace this lowest exam score with your score on the final exam. This policy allows you to have a bad test day, and also reflects the fact that learning takes place over the course of the semester; what you may not understand at the beginning of the term may be clearer at the end. Note that this policy will apply to at most one of your exams. A missed exam will be counted as a zero. See the attendance policy, above, for the only exceptions to this rule.

Final Exam: The final exam will be held on the last day of classes.

- Final: TBA Time: TBA Location: TBA

Final exam will be closed-notes, closed-books, no calculators.

Academic Integrity: By enrolling in this course, each student assumes the responsibilities of an active participant in UMBC's scholarly community in which everyone's academic work and behavior are held to the highest standards of honesty. Cheating, fabrication, plagiarism, and helping others to commit these acts are all forms of academic dishonesty, and they are wrong. Academic misconduct could result in disciplinary action that may include but is not limited to suspension or dismissal. To read the full Student Academic Conduct Policy, consult the UMBC Student Handbook, the Faculty Handbook, or the UMBC Policies section of the UMBC Directory. <http://www.umbc.edu/provost/integrity/faculty.html>

Academic integrity is a core value at UMBC and I expect that value to be reflected in your coursework. You must cite any outside sources you use for homework. You may not use any outside sources for exams or quizzes. You may be asked to have a one-on-one meeting with me to discuss course material. If your responses are substantially different from work you've submitted, you may face an allegation of academic dishonesty, which can result in a zero for the assignment in question and a report of academic misconduct.

Accessibility and Disability Accommodations, Guidance and Resources: Accommodations for students with disabilities are provided for all students with a qualified disability under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA & ADAAA) and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act who request and are eligible for accommodations. The Office of Student Disability Services (SDS) is the UMBC department designated to coordinate accommodations that creates equal access for students when barriers to participation exist in University courses, programs, or activities.

If you have a documented disability and need to request academic accommodations in your courses, please refer to the SDS website at sds.umbc.edu for registration information and office procedures.

SDS email: disAbility@umbc.edu
SDS phone: 410-455-2459

If you will be using SDS approved accommodations in this class, please contact the instructor to discuss implementation of the accommodations. During remote instruction requirements due to COVID, communication and flexibility will be essential for success.

Campus Safety: The following sections refer to campus policy on harrassment, violence, and other issues. All policies and forms can be found at ecr.umbc.edu.

Sexual Assault, Sexual Harassment, and Gender Based Violence and Discrimination UMBC Policy in addition to federal and state law (to include Title IX) prohibits discrimination and harassment on the basis of sex, sexual orientation, and gender identity in University programs and activities. Any student who is impacted by sexual harassment, sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, stalking, sexual exploitation, gender discrimination, pregnancy discrimination, gender-based harassment, or related retaliation should contact the University's Title IX Coordinator to make a report and/or access support and resources. The Title IX Coordinator can be reached at titleixcoordinator@umbc.edu or 410-455-1717.

You can access support and resources even if you do not want to take any further action. You will not be forced to file a formal complaint or police report. Please be aware that the University may take action on its own if essential to protect the safety of the community.

If you are interested in making a report, please use the Online Reporting/Referral Form at https://umbc-advocate.symplicity.com/titleix_report/index.php/pid364290?. Please note that, if you report anonymously, the University's ability to respond will be limited.

Notice that Faculty and Teaching Assistants are Responsible Employees with Mandatory Reporting Obligations

All faculty members and teaching assistants are considered Responsible Employees, per UMBC's Policy on Sexual Misconduct, Sexual Harassment, and Gender Discrimination. Faculty and teaching assistants therefore required to report all known information regarding alleged conduct that may be a violation of the Policy to the Title IX Coordinator, even if a student discloses an experience that occurred before attending UMBC and/or an incident that only involves people not affiliated with UMBC. Reports are required regardless of the amount of detail provided and even in instances where support has already been offered or received.

While faculty members want to encourage you to share information related to your life experiences through discussion and written work, students should understand that faculty are required to report past and present sexual harassment, sexual assault, domestic and dating violence, stalking, and gender discrimination that is shared with them to the Title IX Coordinator so that the University can inform students of their rights, resources, and support. While you are encouraged to do so, you are not obligated to respond to outreach conducted as a result of a report to the Title IX Coordinator.

If you need to speak with someone in confidence, who does not have an obligation to report to the Title IX Coordinator, UMBC has a number of Confidential Resources available to support you:

It is the responsibility of the student to inform the instructor of any intended absences or requested modifications for religious observances in advance, and as early as possible. For questions or guidance regarding religious observances and accommodations, please contact the Office of Equity and Civil Rights at ecr@umbc.edu.

Hate, Bias, Discrimination and Harassment

UMBC values safety, cultural and ethnic diversity, social responsibility, lifelong learning, equity, and civic engagement.

Consistent with these principles, UMBC Policy prohibits discrimination and harassment in its educational programs and activities or with respect to employment terms and conditions based on race, creed, color, religion, sex, gender, pregnancy, ancestry, age, gender identity or expression, national origin, veterans status, marital status, sexual orientation, physical or mental disability, or genetic information.
